ST. JUDE PATIENT JULIE

5 years old • Ohio • optic glioma

In August 2013, Julie's eye began to twitch. Her mother, Melissa, knew something could be terribly wrong. Julie's eye doctor soon confirmed Melissa's fear: Julie had a brain tumor called an optic glioma. Worried about the looming possibility of a very risky brain surgery, Melissa sought out other options. The family was soon referred to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital for Julie's treatment and care. At St. Jude, Julie underwent chemotherapy as part of her initial course of treatment.

Treatments invented at St. Jude have helped push the overall survival rate for childhood cancer from less than 20% when we first opened 80% today. We won't stop until no child dies from cancer.

After a long break from chemotherapy, Julie is undergoing treatment once again at St. Jude, with additional support from a hospital close to home. And her sweet sister Gabby is by her side every step of the way. "My girls inspire me to be the very best person I can possibly be, every day," said Melissa.
