Call stations provide extra protection

St. Jude Security is here to help you whenever you have concerns about safety for yourself or others on the St. Jude campus. Call stations are one way to reach Security in a hurry. Security offers six call stations in the parking lots near the Chili’s Care Center, Tri Delta Place and the Kmart St. Jude Life Center. Call stations are also located near the elevators on every floor of all three St. Jude parking garages.

When you push the call station button for help, the call is connected directly to the Security Control Room, which is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The security control officer will send an officer to assist the call station user.

Zipcar is here for patient families

Three nurses honored with DAISY Awards; you can nominate a nurse, too

Three extraordinary nurses were recognized with DAISY Awards in March. These honorees demonstrate professionalism with a focus on the St. Jude mission, vision and values. They exemplify great teamwork, interpersonal skills and have established a professional connection with patients and families through emotional support and trust.

Congratulations to:
Aaron Atkins (ICU Overflow Unit - Inpatient),
Ruth Basse (Bone Marrow Transplant - Ambulatory Care Unit), and Kathy Youngblood (Medicine Room – Ambulatory Care Unit).

DAISY stands for diseases attacking the immune system. The DAISY Foundation was formed in 1999 by the family of J. Patrick Barnes, who died of an immune disorder at 33. His family had experienced the skilled and compassionate care of many nurses, and they started the DAISY Award program as a way of saying thank you. Today, more than 2,000 health care facilities in all 50 states and 15 other countries are committed to honoring nurses with the DAISY Award.

Any nurse can be nominated by patients, families, employees, volunteers or visitors. If you would like to nominate a nurse for the DAISY Award, pick up a nomination form from any inpatient unit, your child’s clinic waiting area, the Linda R. Hajar Family Resource Center (located on the second floor of the Patient Care Center), the Blood Donor Center or Chili’s Care Center lobby.

You may also nominate a nurse online at www.stjude.org/daisyaward.

To find the nomination form, click on “Nominate a Nurse” located under Related Topics.

If you have questions about the DAISY Award, email DAISYAwardRecognitionCommittee@stjude.org.
Talking about Medicines

Medicines and sun exposure
By Shane Cross, PharmD, Pharmaceutical Services

Summertime is upon us again, and for many, that means spending more time outside. During outdoor activities, keep in mind that certain medicines could make your skin or your child’s skin more sensitive to the sun. It’s a process called chemical photosensitivity (foto SEN si TEE). It means that a person has an enhanced reaction to sunlight. When taking certain medicines, people can suffer severe sunburns after only a short time in the sun. They might also get rashes, hives, itching and even blistering. It can happen with both direct sunlight and fake sunlight, such as light from a tanning bed or sunlamp. It is not caused by the kind of lights used in your home or workplace.

Here are some things you can do to protect yourself and your child from the harmful effects of sunlight. First, know which medicines might cause a strong reaction to sunlight. Prescription bottles should contain a sticker to alert you to this type of side effect.

Some medicines can cause photosensitivity even after the medicine has been stopped. Try to avoid the sunlight between the peak hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. when the sun’s rays are strongest. When you are outside, use a sunscreen with an SPF of at least 30. Be sure to reapply sunscreen often throughout the day.

To learn more about how your skin or your child’s skin might be sensitive to the sun, talk to your doctor, nurse or pharmacist.
